A single minded focus of a great company like Microsoft - to simplify the computing experience, and making IT affordable to a common man - has really been a path breaking achievement of the 20th century. Any adverse judgement will only harm the end-consumer, who will be forced to cough up money for the most essential of features & innovations. Growth & well-being of Microsoft is essential to foster competition and health of IT industry not only in the US, but of the economy world-wide.
